QUESTION 5

TyreCo is a manufacturer of vehicle tyres. Due to the growth in demand for their product, they are aiming to build a second manufacturing facility. To finance this expansion, they have approached ACME Bank to provide and structure a credit facility. You are part of a team at ACME that must put together a report on this credit application.

- i. Outline the information that you would expect to include and issues you would comment on in the report.

In the past, TyreCo dealt only with BankCo, one of ACME's competitors. A colleague made the following comment: "The fact that TyreCo is approaching ACME should be seen as a clear signal that BankCo knows something is wrong and that ACME should not get involved with TyreCo".

- ii. Comment on the merits of your colleague's statement.

QUESTION 7

A large, well established South African general insurer (CoverU) currently writes commercial property, motor and liability policies. Its business is exclusively conducted in local markets. It is considering expanding its business to write new lines of business and to open offices in the rest of Africa.

CoverU currently invests all its assets in money market instruments and short dated government bonds. The head of investments has recommended that the investment strategy should be changed as a result of the business expansion as follows:

- A 30% allocation to medium dated corporate bonds issued by South African companies with a lower credit rating.
- A 30% allocation to US listed money market instruments.
- A 40% allocation to remain in line with the current investment strategy.

Comment on the proposed investment strategy.

QUESTION 8

A company offers its staff membership of a fully funded defined benefit pension fund. The fund has been running for nearly 75 years and has developed a healthy surplus. Pensioners have always received increases in line with inflation, with additional increases being awarded when investment returns allowed for them.

The directors and management of the company have decided to close this defined benefit fund and transfer assets in respect of active members to a new defined contribution fund to which they will make further contributions.

- i. Compare the main benefit and contribution features of a defined benefit and a defined contribution retirement fund. [4]
- ii. Describe the impact of the change to defined contribution on the different classes of members as well as the various stakeholders of the fund. [7]

The assets in respect of active members have now been transferred to individual member accounts in the new scheme. The deferred members have also accepted a transfer value into the new fund. The only remaining members in the existing defined benefit fund are now the existing pensioners of the fund.

The current investment strategy in respect of the defined benefit fund comprises investment in a range of local and offshore asset classes.

The trustees are considering adopting a more closely matched investment strategy for the fund, and are considering the following options:

- Pure matching
- Approximate liability hedging
- Immunisation.

iii. Explain how each of these strategies could be used to match the fund's residual assets and liabilities more closely.

[9]

iv. Discuss the disadvantages of adopting these strategies.
