IFRS 17 Senior actuarial consultant – Johannesburg office

QED is expanding its IFRS 17 team, and we are offering a role for a nearly qualified or qualified life actuary who has strong technical abilities and valuation experience across all main types of life products. This position will give the candidate the opportunity to assist life insurers across Africa to implement IFRS 17, including various training opportunities, whilst at the same time also being able to gain exposure to other life insurance consultancy work. The candidate will report directly to the Associate Director who heads up the IFRS 17 implementation team.

Responsibilities

IFRS 17 related:

- Develop, under the guidance of the Associate Director, a thorough understanding of IFRS 17, from an actuarial, finance and IT requirement perspective
- Lead IFRS 17 implementation projects for life insurers mainly across Africa, including conducting gap analyses, providing training (to staff, boards and other bodies as needed)
- Assist to build / enhance QED's IFRS 17 tools or client-specific tools (including actuarial projection software)
- Implement externally purchased IFRS 17 software for clients
- Achieve key performance indicators
- Ensure quality control procedures are adhered to
- Interact and communicate with clients when needed
- Assist with tenders

Non-IFRS 17 related:

- Assist QED's life insurance teams to complete client engagements where capacity allows.

Requirements

- Minimum of 5 years' valuation experience in life insurance
- Experience with experience analyses, analysis of surplus, EV's, ORSA's, SAM, reserving, and with-profit products
- Some exposure to IFRS 17 would be an advantage.
- Strong actuarial technical skills
- Good progress with exams with only 1 or 2 remaining, if not already qualified
- Good communication skills
- Strong work ethic and highly motivated
- Ability to learn quickly and apply new technical skills especially relating to IFRS 17
- Ability to work to a deadline, giving regular feedback on progress
- Willingness to travel to non-South African based clients from time to time
