2019 CONVENTION

22-23 OCTOBER 2019

2019 Convention

22 - 23 October

Sandton Convention Centre, Johannesburg

Announcement of keynote speaker: Professor Sarah Harper

The Convention Organising Committee is pleased to announce that Professor Sarah Harper has been confirmed as a keynote speaker for the upcoming Convention.

Sarah is Professor of Gerontology at the University of Oxford, a Fellow at University College, and the Founding Director of the Oxford Institute of Population Ageing. Sarah served on the Prime Minister's Council for Science and Technology, which advises the Prime Minister on the scientific evidence for strategic policies and frameworks. In 2017 she served as the Director of the Royal Institution of Great Britain. Sarah is a Director and Trustee of the UK Research Integrity Office and a member of the Board of Health Data Research UK. Sarah was appointed a CBE in 2018 for services to Demography.

We look forward to hearing the insights Professor Harper will share with us.

Call for papers and speakers update

The deadline for submissions has passed and the selection process for topics to be presented at the Convention is well underway. A total of 49 submissions was received, 16 of which were based on a paper. The Convention Organising Committee would like to thank each and every person who took the time to submit a topic. We endeavour to pick the very best submissions to ensure we provide a high quality, well-rounded and relevant Convention programme.

Please watch this space for further updates of what you can look forward to at this year's Convention.

Regards
