

E-Learning School Support Program

BY PAPER VIDEO & THE ACTUARIAL SOCIETY EDUCATION TRUST (ASET)

What is PaperVideo

click I watch I learn

Paper Video is a South African social enterprise that specialises in the creation of digital resources for high school learners and teachers in the subjects of Mathematics, Physical Sciences, Accounting, Life Sciences and Natural Sciences.

By embedding past exam papers and worksheets with video lessons created by experienced teachers (over 13,000 and counting), Paper Video has made it possible for learners to access an extra teacher through their smartphone or computer. Any time. Any place.

What's more, we have created both online and offline access options, making it possible for learners across South Africa to access our collection of resources, irrespective of their connectivity-status.

Why choose the E-Learning School Support Programme?

Even before the catastrophic effects of the COVID-19 pandemic, the South African education system was facing a crisis in terms of providing learners with access to quality education. Thankfully, the increasing penetration of smart mobile devices and internet connectivity has meant that digital resources, such as the unmatched collection of video lessons by Paper Video, are providing a solution for increasing the reach of quality educators.

By becoming a sponsor of the E-Learning School Support Programme, you will be providing learners and teachers in the greatest of need with access to essential e-learning resources. This will allow for safe distance learning during the unprecedented challenges that the country is currently facing.

Our approach

In this Support Programme, we are proposing the sponsorship of our online resources for a school or schools. For a nominal monthly fee per school, our full collection of online resources will be made available to all learners and teachers at the recipient school (in addition to the items listed below). While recipient schools often do require an offline access solution, we have seen in past projects that an increasing number of learners and teachers are able to access our resources online. After an agreed-upon period of time, online engagement will be used as a litmus test to determine if the school should continue with the programme and if the school will benefit from becoming a recipient of one of our offline access options.
